The screenshot displays the Final Draft 10 software interface. The main window shows a script titled "EXT. AIRSHIP DECK - DAY" with the following text:

TRISH backs up against the main mast.

The sidebar contains several sections:

- RANDOM NOTES:
 - LOGLINE: A frazzled single mother must escape a non-sensical magical world of flying ships, warlocks, and monsters in order to get back home to her children.
 - CENTRAL CONFLICT: Trish has to get back to her kids. She can't because the power she needs to get back is almost certainly the unfriendly warlocks.
 - What's it ABOUT?: How do you lead when you're afraid?
 - Legend: Red = Beat, Green = Conversation, Purple = Magic, Blue = Down Emotion.
 - Right to fish: Trish tries to ask Deanna about how the changes work in this world. Trish: So left is right, right is left? Deanna: not quite. more like left is orange, right is fish.
 - Opportunity: opportunity in our world to show how people treat her and then to mirror that treatment in this world.
 - Physics - THE STRETCH: This dimension - The Stretch - is not another planet. The entire universe is one big sky. Multiple suns, presumably, just really far apart. Probably needs cool top for between suns. There is no "bottom" to the sky. The theory is that you might fall for months or even years... and still wind up back at the top again. No one can really say how big the Stretch is. They don't know - even bees so that we know how big our universe is. Its quite possible the Stretch could be just as big. But Trish's story is focused around one area so vast as our planet and then some.
 - Gravity: Gravity works a little more like "Curse" in the Stretch. If two things are connected, they can "support" each other against the pull of gravity.
 - Floating! The Stretch that drifts anywhere very close apart is impossible. The stance of a foot and space else. But a loading of than it was.
- ACT ONE:
 - INT. CONFERENCE ROOM - AFTERNOON

Ten SUITS sit around a dreary corporate conference room. Silent impatience. They're waiting for someone.

TOP SUIT sighs, annoyed.

CHARACTER STUDY
She does have a habit of showing up a bit late.

And in she bursts. TRISH THOMPSON, 40, tall, frazzled, and perpetually late, she's a nervous ball of energy who wears her anxiety for all to see.

She pulls on the glass conference room door. It's too heavy. A second effort, almost as hell. She tumbles back a step as it finally cracks open enough for her to squeeze her way in.

TRISH
I'm so sorry. The traffic was bizarre. I tried getting off at Millhaven and that was worse -

TOP SUIT
You brought the data tables?

She freezes. Obviously so.

TRISH
(recovering)
Actually, I have them in the cloud.

Top Suit slides her a wireless keyboard and a mouse. On the big tv screen at the front of the room, she navigates a browser to CloudShare.com. Three tries before she gets her password right.

An awkward silence while she scans through a monstrous list of files and folders. Annoyance in the room grows.

Finally, she double clicks a file labeled: "Vunderchik - final copy version 7 w/ Monday revisions"

A line graph displays on the TV. Trish stumbles into her presentation.
- ACT TWO:
 - TRISH
We're back to talk about... math. (stammering)
About reaching the people that really matter.
 - TOP SUIT
Thoughtful of it is... Wait. This is Vunderchik data?
 - TRISH
The great white. The scaled loop on the conference room door: "Malinaa too".
 - TRISH
Well... hypothetically. It could be. This slide is just to demonstrate...
 - TOP SUIT
Did you just show proprietary data to a competitor out gun of your other clients?
 - TRISH
The minimum presentation. Opens another file labeled "Malinaa".
- ACT FOUR:

The main character has made her own situation worse, through her own actions and/or ignorance. Act Four should make the main character take even more desperate action, which inevitably puts them in a worse situation by the end of Act Four.
- ACT FIVE:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
- ACT SIX:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
- ACT SEVEN:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
- ACT EIGHT:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
- ACT NINE:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
- ACT TEN:

The main character pulls an unlikely victory from her past experience or from her unique perspective based in ignorance. She saves the day, but ultimately, doesn't get what she wanted at the start of Act Two.
