INDIA'S BIGGEST UNREPORTED SCAM?

21st DECEMBER, 2007

CBI CLOSING IN ON THE CONFIDENCE ARTISTS

For power or money? ... say the law CBI gang

The past few months have seen a rising wave of impostor crimes across the country. While the authorities were at their wits' end to trace the impostors, some headway seems to have been made. Speaking exclusively to The Daily Paper, were the details regarding the case of a scoundrel named Ramesh Prasad, CBI officer Waqar Khan & his associate Senior Inspector Ramesh Singh.

DP: Can you share some light on the case?
WK: It's a complex & unusual case. A group of people posing as CBI IT and wireless case officers from CAs have been conducting absolutely fake raids across the country. These are actually meticulously planned robberies.

DP: Why have it taken so long to detect this case?
WK: Well for one they should have been reported...

DP: Meaning?
WK: It's nearly a perfect crime. Almost all victims of such robberies were under the IT scanner for possession of black money. And these confidence artists seem to be aware of this - making these IT soft targets. If the money and goods stolen are not legally possessed - who would report? Our biggest confidence to make the money, gold, vehicles... Also, these crooks have tremendous knowledge of computers. We have all information that they carry very real looking like ID cards, can walk and talk to government men, police etc... we generally get the information from witnesses but that too is quite distorted.

DP: What do you mean by confidence artist?
WK: These criminals hang into the homes, offices, shops... sometimes raid, and the premises & get it down. Meanwhile, the victims, cut out of communication, are away with the stolen loot... the victims for a very long time doesn't even realize that he has been robbed. In some cases a government receipt with the official government seal was also given to the victims.

DP: This is outrageous - what is the extent of their exploits?
WK: They are probably the steepest criminals in recent history. We do not have official reported figures but a conservative estimate points towards a figure of over 100 cases being conducted in various states across 17 states or more. Such a case has never been reported in CBI history.

DP: People seem to be laughing at the authorities and the system... and usually holding the gang as noble hood.
WK: Media should stop glorifying these robbers... what they are doing is a criminal offence...

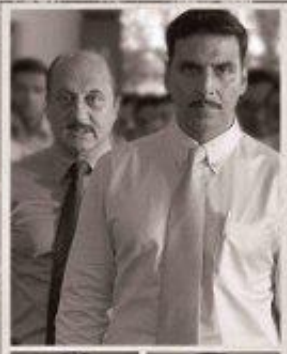

DP: Even if it was black money? I mean... shouldn't the government be thankful?
WK: There is a procedure for everything... the law cannot be violated... I agree that they are smart... but someone escapes the long arm of law. We are in the 1980s and we have technology on our side... they can't remain hidden always.

DP: You mean you still don't have any leads?
WK: We do, we need more evidence... what can we do when we catch them & no one is willing to identify them? We are on their trail and will soon have them in custody.

DP: This gang seems to be a well oiled machine - is there a chance that it is actually an inside job?
WK: Not at all.

DP: How many people form this gang?
WK: We suspect there are around 10 people, their leader's name is yet unknown.

DP: Every criminal leaves a trail... what about this gang?
WK: Obviously they leave no visible evidence but they do have a knack of sifting their victims'... and possess of their loot but... (but never in one's hand)

THEY ARE PLANNING SOMETHING HUGE!

The gang which has been making news for the last few months is supposed to be planning the biggest Indian heist ever. The CBI and police of various states have been on their trail for a while. The authorities, while refusing to divulge any details, did mention that they were up against a very difficult situation. Thus, in order to move forward, they've decided to deploy cutting edge technology to intercept the gang's communications. "We're monitoring close to 2000 people," it takes time" said a widely quoted Senior Inspector Ramesh Singh.

While official sources have refused to divulge any further details, our field reports have made some startling revelations. "It's a gang of 6 core members. They all hail from the same town either in UP or Bihar but don't live together anymore. The mastermind is actually a person who operated out of Nepal (some say he's Chinese) and barely makes an appearance in the country. One of the most startling revelations is that there's a young woman in the gang. She is assumed to be the love interest of the gang's primary operative who goes by various identities. Some sources have claimed to have seen her and some say she operates in the background - thus it rarely seen during these fake raids."

"They're definitely planning something huge" says one of our other informants. "It's going to be the mother of all heists... they are lightning over entire nation, but this gang may just prove everyone wrong."

So far, there are over 15 cases reported from various states the victims, while not admitting to the thefts officially as they're scared that the 'real' IT would be on their backs, have started enquiring about how to get their hard earned money back... Although money which may or may not be exactly legal. With the real CBI managed to nab these criminals before their new big heist!
